From the Director General's Desk

Education being the antidote for child labour, enrolment and retention of 'out of school' children is one of the effective strategies for prevention and elimination of child labour. Government of India continuously strives to ensure that children attend school to get educated in their formative years of their lives and that seeds are sown for ensuring quality human resources in the future. The 'National Education Policy, 2020' also reiterates that elementary education is important. Concerted efforts are being made to address the issue of child labour over the years.

There is no denying of the fact that the COVID-19 pandemic had its own impact on the lives and livelihoods of the people across the globe. Children, especially those belonging to the disadvantageous sections of the society, who could not afford the paraphernalia of the online mode of education, were forced to remain muted. Thus, children who were already enrolled for education had also got seriously impacted during these COVID-19 times, not talking about others who remain yet to be enrolled. As could be seen from the reports of the International labour Organisation (ILO) and United Nations

Children's Fund (UNICEF), loss of livelihood of the parents and attendant impact of poverty on the lives of the families could have a serious impact on growing behaviour of the children, unless timely interventions are carried out.

The above scenario is a matter of concern to the policy-makers, planners, implementers, community leaders and workers, academia and researchers and the society at large. It is important that all children get free access to elementary education. This equity cannot be achieved without the active participation and involvement of students, parents, teachers, concerned government departments and agencies, and all stakeholders of the community. Convergence of the efforts of these stakeholders could yield significant results. Further transparency in the implementation of various schemes and judicious utilisation of the earmarked funds could go a long way in ameliorating the problem.

Principals, Headmasters, and General Educators have an important role in students' enrolment and retention. Regular Meetings of the Parents Teachers Associations, Home Visiting Programmes, Community Awareness and Assessment Campaigns, and Counselling of Parents can help in retaining and mainstreaming children in education and keeping them away from work, thus making significant difference in sustaining the efforts of prevention and elimination of child labour. Organising 'Community School Enrolment Fairs' and highlighting the existing schemes of the government for children like, scholarships, midday meal scheme, other incentives can help in bringing the children back to schools who could not attend the schools due to the COVID-19 pandemic conditions.

The learning outcome of the students, especially those who are first time learners, is normally determined by the quality of education imparted which in turn depends on educators' ability to communicate, impart knowledge and skills and provide overall professional and behavioural support to the children. Educators empathy and sensitiveness in attending to children's special needs viz. any personality disorders, inferiority complexes, socio-economic-cultural-topographical background, etc. could help in taking forward the 'inclusive education' agenda of the government.

Concerted efforts are needed for enrolling the never enrolled children, getting the drop-outs back to school and filling up the learning loss with a concrete plan and roadmap so that the objective of 'Child labour free India' could be realized.

Special Event

E-Consultation on "Coordination and Convergence on Bonded Labour Rehabilitation"

E-Consultation on "Coordination and Convergence on Bonded Labour Rehabilitation" was conducted on 26th November 2020. The Consultation was jointly organized by the V.V. Giri National Labour Institute and international Justice Mission (IJM).

The Objectives of this E-Consultation are:

• To share experience and implementation realities of relevant schemes and welfare programmes of states for sustainable rehabilitation of rescued bonded/forced labour, migrants &, trafficked survivors (like PDS, Income generating activities for livelihoods support, employment–MGNREGA, social security-

- BoCW, employable skills, animal husbandry, poultry, access to forest based products etc.)
- To open-up for suggestions across stakeholders, CSOs and government officials towards identifying solutions for strengthening implementation of BLR Scheme through possible guidelines to states. The objective for this Consultation was to update the participants on various measures taken by the Central Government and other National level Agencies, State Governments, and the CSOs to enable better implementation of Bonded Labour Rehabilitation Scheme 2016, of the Ministry of Labour & Employment, Government of India.

This E-Consultation was inaugurated by Dr. H. Srinivas, IRPS, Director General, V.V. Giri National Labour Institute and Shri Bimbadhar Pradhan, IAS, Secretary General, National Human Rights Commission delivered the Keynote Address.

In his inaugural address to the consultation, he introduced the concept of working towards the issue of bonded labour with a heart and mind approach in keeping with India's commitment under various ILO Conventions. He advised to continue sensitization for appropriate implementation of the law in order to successfully identify, rescue and rehabilitate bonded labour. He insisted on efficiently mainstreaming the issue for holistic rehabilitation of bonded labour survivors. He also suggested making everyone a stakeholder in addressing the same. Continuous training and sensitization to bring together coordination and convergence across departments such as Health and Family Welfare, Law & Order, Labour, Women and Children etc. is also critical. He informed that the Parliament has brought into action Labour Codes to deal with any unjust practice. According to him, these Codes are relevant for their emphasis on universalization of minimum wages and social security. He also emphasized on starting labour rights awareness programmes for maximum benefits from Labour Codes.

Aspects discussed in this consultation include the "importance of legal aid and convergence plan for rehabilitation of survivors"; "challenges and learnings in helping bonded labour survivors access to Bonded Labour Rehabilitation (BLR) Scheme (cash&non-cashrehabilitation)"; "State Governments' initiatives and measures for coordination and convergence for protection and rehabilitation of bonded labourers"; "Role of Administration in rehabilitation of survivors, livelihood opportunities and tribal development"; "Field-level challenges and the inputs and initiatives experiences of the Civil Society Organizations towards solutions"; and "Strengthening implementation BLR Scheme 2016 of the MoLE through possible guidelines to the States' initiatives/".
